$348,000 Goal for United Fund Campaign

Retired Union Member
Society, Arthritis
Foundation Accepted

The board of directors of the Tri-Cities Area United Fund Thursday afternoon set a goal of $348,000 to be raised during the fall fund campaign. The total provides $305,200 for 1966 allocations to 21 agencies. The balance of $42,800 is to cover administration and campaign expenses and to provide a contingency reserve. Last year, the goal was $335,000, with $292,750 allocated to 19 agencies.

Two new agencies were admitted to the United Fund roster of fund participants. The admissions and distribution committee submitted a report to the board in which it recommended addition as a member agency. The committee recommended that the Fraternal Society of Retired Union Members, which sought membership in the fund, be accepted this year, but the report was amended to include the new group, with the 27 board members present voting 11 in favor of including, ten against and three not voting.

$2000 for Foundation. An allocation of $2000 was made for the Arthritis Foundation, which has headquarters in St. Louis, and $1800 as the allocation for the retired union member group.

Thirty-three persons attended the meeting, including board members, agency delegates, staff members and other committee members. A motion to adopt the $348,000 quota was presented by John Hunsley, chairman of the United Fund, and seconded by Joseph Glick, chairman of the board, which also included approval of a by-law provision providing for annual rotation of five members of the 25-member advisory and distribution committee. The committee has been made up of a permanent membership.

Hereafter, the terms of five members will expire each year, with new appointments for three-year terms made by the president.

In determining the $366,200 agency allocations, the board approved the largest single allocation, $65,000 to the YMCA for 1966. The amount is $7,000 of the $73,000 requested by the agency, but 101.3% of the $62,000 allocated for 1965.

Next largest allocation was approved for the Boy Scouts in the amount of $14,000. The agency requested $18,000, but 155.6% of the 1965 year received $12,000.

An allocation of $32,000 was approved for Catholic Charities.

No New Sessions Slated in Strike At Union Starch

A strike of 410 employees of Union Starch and Refining Co. went into its 20th day today following rejection of proposals for ending the company's lockout. The union and the company in a U. S. conciliation meeting in St. Louis Friday afternoon.

No further meetings had been scheduled today. Cecil Martin, U. S. conciliator, said he was representative of the striking Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Local 7465, is out-of-control.

Although company officials said proposals presented by both groups in Friday's session were turned down completely, Thomas Austin, president of the union, said he believes "we made a little headway."

Vandalism Issue
It was understood the company would attempt to work except those for whom there is just cause for discharge.

The union continued its request for an 18-cent hourly wage increase. The company is offering a 10-cent increase, but asked that the company drop its demand for craft reassignment and that voluntary arbitration be used.

Austin explained that the union turned down a recent proposal by the company to make full payments on employee insurance premiums for the duration of the strike because the local union had no authority to commit the international union to repayment of the dues.

The company proposed to pay the premiums if the union would require the company to act at the end of the strike.

Deny Outside Help
The company today denied further reports that "outsiders" had been imported to assist in operation of the plant.

A company spokesman said the situation remains the same as it has been since the plant reopened, that the company has not employed anyone who is not a regularly salaried employee of the company.

Strikers have expressed the opinion that outside workers are being hired since the plant is in operation.

However, there has been no verification of any such hiring.

The fire was limited to a hallway, where it did $200 damage to the building. Firemen moved it from the street, where it was burning, to a grocery store on the same floor or to a grocery store on the ground floor.

A woman's clothing store next door also would have been threatened if the fire had spread.

GC Tax Receipts At 33% of Total, Deadline Near

Tax collectors for Granite City township totaled $2,100,000 through last week and are running $156,013 behind collections of last year for the same week of collections.

E. R. "Pat" Rath, city treasurer, said today. With only two weeks remaining in which the city township is to make local collections, only 33% of the amount billed Granite City taxpayers has been paid.

Rich pointed out that taxpayers actually can help reduce their tax bills by paying their taxes locally instead of waiting until the books go to the county treasurer. Granite City retains a 2% commission on all payments for distribution to taxing districts. The county receives 1%.

After the tax books go to the county treasurer, however, the county retains the full 2% commission.

Last year, the city township's office obtained $12,000 in commissions for tax collections.

The deadline for payment of taxes at Erie's office will be Saturday, Aug. 11. Rich said, Granite City taxpayers have been billed for a total of $6,472,000 for the 1965 year, to be collected during the present collection period.

Zone Hearing Aug. 12 On Proposed Airport

A request for rezoning a site for a proposed multi-million dollar airport, industrial park and hotel-resort development is to be considered Aug. 12 at a public hearing by the Madison county zoning board of appeals.

The request, filed by Tom Foster, 34, of St. Louis, seeks an M-1 limited manufacturing district with a special use permit for a light aircraft airport of about 180 acres. The area presently is zoned agricultural.

Foster recently presented his plans to the trustees of Ponton Beach village, who earlier had approved the development and are in the process of rezoning the earlier land.

The tract is on the east side of Route 111 and south of Interstate Route 200 in the vicinity of Ponton Beach, Mo. The land is in Chouteau township and the remainder in Nemoquo township.

Foster said the airport has been given approval of the Federal Aviation Administration with final authorization dependent on proper zoning classification.

All-Time Record In Mississippi Shipping Volume

Col. James B. Meane Jr., district engineer, U. S. Army Engineer District, St. Louis, announced Friday a new all-time record high of 38,316,435 tons of waterborne commerce on the middle Mississippi River between the mouth of the Ohio and Missouri rivers for 1964.

Col. Meane said that, based on preliminary figures compiled by the Corps of Engineers, tonnage on the middle Mississippi had increased more than 2 1/2 million tons over the record of 35,726,911 tons set in 1963, and the average annual increase since 1955 has been over two million tons.

Preliminary figures also show an increase in tonnage on the Mississippi River from Minneapolis to the mouth of the passes to the Gulf of Mexico from 157,807,291 tons in 1963 to 167,683 tons in 1964.

Traffic in the St. Louis vicinity increased to 9,511,139 tons in 1964 over the 9,517,328 tons recorded in 1963. Col. Meane attributed the progressive increase in traffic to improved navigation facilities; improved towboats and barges; an increased number of waterway plant and terminals; and new commodities being shipped by water.

At the meeting was Mrs. William E. Finch, president of the American Airlines. Recipient of his company's 1963 Top Hat Award from the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs attending the national convention, ending Thursday in Washington, D.C.

About 500 members were guests of Mrs. Perle Mesta at her home for tea. Those honored guests were members who had earned "Gold" membership cards by introducing five new members to the Federation during the 1963-64 fiscal year.

The gold card program contributed greatly to the membership gain this year of nearly 4000. A Ruby Jackson attending the tea was Granite City.

Dr. Dorothy M. Ford, president of the Federation, from Sherman Oaks, Calif., presided. An innovation in this year's convention was a fully program classes emphasizing the Federation's 1963-66 theme, "Plan for Progress, Say Youth, Education, Service."

Launching the education area of discussion was Mrs. Lavina Trout, 1963-64 Teacher of the Year and a member of the Department of English at Central State College in Edmond, Okla. Speaking on service was Arch N. Smith, executive vice-president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

"The Challenge of Change" was the title of an address by consultant J. Lewis Powell, who traced the changes faced by man and nature during the history of the world and related the effects on women as individuals, RFW members and citizens.

Back by popular demand for the second year, Laurence J. Taylor, vice-president for leadership development at Hillsdale College, Hillsdale, Mich., spoke to a membership workshop. The topic, "Growth on Purpose" was devoted to the development and utilization of leadership abilities and management skills.

Also on the busy agenda were business meetings and reception of the 1963-66 national officers. Emphasizing the 1963-66 Federation theme, "The Responsibility of Public Partnerships," state federations were invited to present their plans for the coming year.

Local women extending their stay in Washington for the international meeting include Ruby Jackson, Phyllis Smith and Kathryn Smith.

The hot story at the moment is that in the overall race for the Grand Cash Award and the 1966 Buck Station Wagon a real dark force is making a strong surge for the top spot now shared by Madison Band and Sequoyia Indians. This group is St. Margaret Mary Parish. July coupons for them have been pouring in and they have ordered an initial delivery of 5,000 of the August coupons that will be good until September 15.

So this is the final stretch drive between now and September 21 and snapping at the heels of the leaders — Madison Band, Sequoyia Indians and St. Margaret Mary — are St. Elizabeth, Eastern Star and Warren Brothers.

Besides the Buck Station wagon the other merchandise awards are well worth a strong last ditch effort. Zenith Color TV Set—Weigand for $50 at Daytona Beach, complete set World Book Encyclopedia, 16x20 Lazebny portrait in color, 3 Miami Beach vacations for two plus jewelry, appliances etc....

There will be no bonus sponsors listed on the coupons for August but there may be some bonus prizes included between now and the end of this year's Derby which follow this space closely each Monday and listen carefully to our Club Derby broadcasts each morning at 9:30 and each afternoon at 2:30.

These are the sponsors for the rest of the way and the only source of Club Derby points:

- Bowland Lanes, Burger Chef, Frenchies, Bellmore Bakery, Friedman Furniture, Gamm's Shoe World, Gaudy Lumber Company, Harewitz Jewellers, Kline's Interiors, Decorators, Lazebny Photographers, McKinnin Buick, Madison Supermarket, Mathis Repair Shop, Midtown Pharmacy, M. E. Norman Cosmetics, Rose Bowl Restaurant, Sax Supermarket, Sehermer's Mens Wear, Fun 'n Sun Beach and Park, Townsend TV and Repair, Tri-City Cleaners, Krey Packing Co.

And remember that WGNU Club Derby stamps are also available from Bowland, Fun 'n Sun, Granite City Trust, Lazebny Photographers, Supermarket, Rose Bowl Restaurant and Sax-Supermarket. The stamps are worth one point apiece and one cent apiece in cash. Nice way to earn still additional money for your club.

And remember it's 25 stamps for each new savings account, 30 stamps for each new checking account and 100 stamps for each new auto loan at Granite City Trust and Savings Bank as well as the corresponding number of Derby points... GREAT WAY TO ROLL UP THE POINTS!!!

And, of course, roll up the big point totals at Friedman's — 40,000 items from which to choose!

Listen to Ann Burton's Derby News every morning at 9:30 and every afternoon at 2:30 — WGNU, 920 kc.

Safety Precautions An Essential Part of Skin, Scuba Diving

If you're taking up scuba diving this summer, be sure to get your feet wet in basic rules of diving safety first. Diver's lives are being urged.

Insurance companies suggest that before taking the plunge, novice divers learn safety principles.

Five points being emphasized are:

1. Get a physical check-up before even beginning lessons. People with heart or respiratory ailments, ear or sinus conditions, nervousness or claustrophobia shouldn't dive.

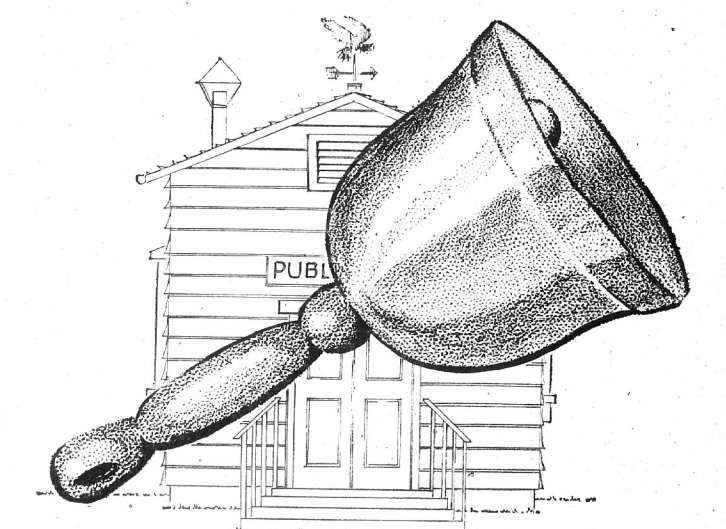

2. Learn the laws of physics governing interaction of air and water pressure. Most serious and fatal accidents occur when divers fail to follow these laws during dives or while they are returning to the surface and are attacked by the "bends," air embolism or other diver's diseases.

3. Know how to care for diving equipment and practice its use in shallow water many times under competent instruction before venturing into deep water. Novice divers should never go below 33 feet—where pressure is double that on the surface.

4. Learn in advance all there is to know about the water in which a dive is planned. Find out whether it is inhabited by dangerous marine life and learn every condition of current, tide and surface wind that may be a factor in maintaining a "pattern of safety."

5. Never dive alone. Because accidents usually happen to solo divers, even experts never go below without a "buddy" diver.

Two Added to SIU-SW Fine Arts Faculty

Two additions to Southern Illinois University's Fine Arts Division faculty were announced Friday by William T. Gong, academic dean at SIU's Southwest campus. They are Keith St. Onge, professor of speech, and Herbert Oberling, assistant professor of instrumental music.

St. Onge comes to SIU from the University of New Mexico, where he has been since 1952. A University of Wisconsin Ph.D., St. Onge was formerly director of the New Mexico Elks Cerebral Palsy Diagnostic Clinic, and from 1955 to 1959 supervised the program in aphasia and served as consultant in speech pathology at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Albuquerque. He is author of numerous published articles. His "Creative Speech," a college level textbook for the advanced speech student, was published in 1964. Currently he is writing a text on self-management for the student, "So You Succeed."

Oberling, who received his bachelor of music degree from St. Louis Institute of Music and his master's from Indiana University, has been teaching woodwinds and theory at Baldwin-Wallace College in Berea, O., since 1953. Work on his doctor of music is in progress at Indiana.

Richard Modrusile, 17, of 906 Madison avenue and his cousin, Joseph Modrusile, 19, of 711 Lee avenue were injured severely at 10:59 p.m. Thursday when they were beaten by four unidentified men, who escaped.

Madison police said the two youths were walking home from Granite City, Mo., when they were beaten by four unidentified men, who escaped.

Richard Modrusile was injured for severe pains in the lower chest and abdomen, an injury to his left upper arm and abrasions to his left elbow.

Joe Modrusile was unconscious when taken to the hospital and was reported to have suffered a cerebral concussion, a nose laceration, fractured nasal bone and a two-inch laceration on the forehead.

Police said the two victims could supply no reason for the attack. They told officers the men ran to a nearby auto and drove away after the beating.

Some GC Catch Basins Being Used for Dumping

Two wheelbarrows of mowed grass were removed Friday from the catch basin at Glen drive and Ash avenue, he said.

Demonstration of Steel Process a Roundup Highlight

Formal work has been received by the River Bluffs Girl Scout Council from the Senior Roundup held in Idaho that the demonstration on the production of steel, prepared by the council's "Shrieking Violets" patrol, was selected for presentation in the "Rendezvous Area" of the encampment.

Each of the 1120 groups of eight girls (patrols) attending the roundup prepared a presentation to typify historic or present-day aspects of the group's home community. The "Shrieking Violets" devised a demonstration showing the process of making steel, following the production techniques of Granite City Steel Co., one of the largest producers of steel in the nation.

The girls used two circles of model train tracks and original models of furnaces to show the process of converting raw materials into steel. The campers explained that the type of steel produced depends on the presence of such elements as carbon, manganese and silicon in the ore sample. Many kinds of steel are produced each suited to a particular use.

Since there was time for less than a hundred of the 1120 demonstrations to be presented in the Rendezvous Area during the 10-day encampment, selection was a tribute to the girls and the ingenuity of their presentation.

Another of the council's patrols, The Big Wheels, was selected to give its demonstration on "Indian Smoke Signals" at the Rendezvous Area. Miss Dianne Thompson of Granite City is a member of the latter patrol.

Members of the Shrieking Violets patrol are Marilyn Bondegard, Marie Greve and Chris Lewis of Granite City; Anne Jenkins and Edith Ford of Edwardsville; Dale McLesters and Sally Lewis of East St. Louis; and Gal Tenikat of Bond.

Roundup campers arrived home Saturday.

Plans National Report On Railroad Tax Cases

Prof. Leo Cohen of Southern Illinois University's Southwest campus has been asked by the National Tax Association to prepare a report on recent court cases involving railroad tax litigation.

The report will be presented at the Association's convention in November and will be published in the annual proceedings next spring.

Cohen arrived as consultant to the Madison county state's attorney in court cases where railroad taxes have been contested. The assessments were unfair. The emphasis in his report for the National Tax Association, however, will be on decisions of state supreme courts in railroad tax cases.

Preserving Foods is Oldest 4-H Project

The first culinary art learned by 4-H club girls more than a half century ago was that of preserving food. It remains a part of the training in 1965.

"Canning clubs," they were called in those early days, and the canning project continued to be valuable in the 4-H program. Later, home freezing of foods was taught and the familiar canning program was expanded to include frozen foods. The name was changed to "food preservation."

This information comes from the National 4-H Service Committee, which arranges for sponsorship of 4-H award programs supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service.

A preference for home preserved vegetables, fruits, jams, jellies, pickled dishes and baked goods appears to have reached a new high in 4-H. A stronger emphasis on nutrition also has been a factor. Enrollment is increasing, and with the recent booming of the program, continued growth is expected.

As with other 4-H programs, modern methods, knowledge, skills and scientific investigation are all embodied in the food preservation program, a committee spokesman explains.

There are opportunities for testing, experimenting, trying in different methods, demonstrating and exhibiting.

Upon completion, the food preservation projects are evaluated by local 4-H leaders and extension persons to show progress and superior achievement. Those judged best receive awards as follows: county, four medals; state, one trip to the National 4-H Club Conference at Chicago; national, six $500 scholarships.

Simpkins Honored as 'Music Under Stars' Ends 8th Year

The eighth season for the Granite City park district's "Music Under the Stars" concert series was brought to a close Thursday evening with a rousing sing-along-style program attended by an estimated crowd of 1600.

Chorusing the fifth and final concert of the summer months was the presentation of a park district recognition award to Warren L. Simpkins, music director, who has produced and directed the Wilson Park open air concert series since the program's inception.

Thursday night's sing-along was the 32nd performance under his direction.

Simpkins, vocal music director at Granite City high school, was presented the framed certificate by W. Milton Worthen, vice-president of the board of park commissioners.

He was introduced by Park Supt. Harold Brown, who recalled "Numerous outstanding services contributed by the director to the park district and youth of the community. Later, Simpkins noted that the award was the first he had received.

"Let's Sing the Old Songs," theme of the final concert, featured an audience participation chorus work by Harry Simons, a member of the Fred Waring organization. Some of the songs included: "Meet Me In St. Louis," "My Gal Sal," "School Days," "Let Me Tell You Sweetheart," and "In the Good Old Summer Time."

Accompanying the singing was a small instrumental ensemble of Phyllis Crews, pianist; David Bortolin, drums; Bill Ebrecht, bass fiddle; Cheryl Dertch, guitar; and John Mangarino, accordion. Wilbur "Jack" Johnson also provided accompaniment for a portion of the program.

A highlight of the summer recreation program was a hands-behind-the-back watermelon-eating contest which ended in the three-way tie with the winners being Kevin Rushing of the Wilson school center, Charles Kraus of the Niedringhaus school center, and George Odum of the Nameoki school center.

Funeral services were held this afternoon in Collinsville for John M. McGee, 76, formerly of Collinsville and a retired guard of Granite City Steel Co., who died Friday in the home of a daughter in McProctor, Ill. He had been living there for the past year. Burial was in St. John's Cemetery, Collinsville.

A PRONE POSITION was assumed by watermelon contestant George Odum when his quarter-melon slipped to the floor during the height of the contest. Undaunted by the mishap, he went on eating his way to the three-way tie championship.

SEA SONGS with a Hawaiian flavor were presented by youngsters of the park district's Community Center during the summer recreation round-up Friday evening at Wilson Park.

Mildew Among Summer Hazards for Clothing

In biblical writings they called it "leprosy of garments." Today it is called mildew. It permanently stains clothing, causes loss of fabric color and weakens fabric.

How can it be prevented? Proper storage is the key, says the National Institute of Drycleaning, which has reported:

The Institute's director of research, Albert R. Martin, describes a mildew spore as "a fungal seed which grows into microscopic fungus and eventually may even sprout roots into your clothing."

"Air currents can carry these spores or seeds virtually anywhere. The seed needs only the fabric."

"Interestingly enough, the growth may appear in a variety of colors. The fungus may be green, blue, yellow, brown, or red."

"The Institute's authorities say that the combination of dampness and high temperature encourages mildew germination and growth."

Storage Technique
When you store a garment, seal it in a drycleaner's plastic bag. But be sure, when you seal the bag, that the temperature is cool and humidity low.

"Firm humid air in the bag could cool and cause moisture condensation which is important to mildew growth."

"Martin says, 'Mildew's attack wasn't a bad storage area, when it was properly ventilated, even though it was a warm place in the summer. It was dry, moisture was usually vented off, and in the evening a great deal of the moisture condensed from the air was absorbed by the wool.'

"Naturally, the worst possible place to store clothing is in the basement."

Wandering About in Southern Illinois

By DR. JOHN W. ALLEN
Southern Illinois University

Three days were spent in and about Mt. Carmel in Wabash county. A full day was used in prowling among the older ruins in the county courthouse, so remedied since earlier visits that it was recognized only by the Civil War soldier's statue in its yawning.

On the second day, three kindred souls offered to take me on a visit to some of the more interesting spots in the county.

Their first request was "Tell us some of the places you want to see." The first one suggested was the site of the Mt. Carmel locks and dam in the Wabash. That started us down Fifth Street to the ferry landing at the end of it and to some enjoyable distractions. Perhaps it would be better to call them "fringe benefits."

Ferry Operation
The first diversion was the manner of operating the ferry. A steel cable suspended across the stream keeps the boat from floating away downstream. A large pulley rolling along the cable has shorter cables attached to it and to the prow and stern of the barge on which cars were carried.

This arrangement allows the shorter lengths of cable to be drawn in or extended to have the boat go at an angle or corners. The upriver side of the ferry thus serves as a kind of underwater sail that helps push it toward the other side.

A small gasoline-powered boat with its nose-prow, if you are a sailor, is hinged at the center of the downstream side. With each change of direction, this small boat turns about on its nose and helps push the ferry along. We landlubbers promptly concluded that a good ferryman was an indispensable person. This was a distraction number one.

Muscles Gathered
A second distraction, tied near the ferry, was a sandstone barge, with standards a few feet wide, with standards a few feet high along its sides. The standards to our "Now what's that?" was answered with "Oh, that's for gathering mussels."

This was followed by an explanation of how it works and how the standards support lengths of pipe laid across them. From these pipes hooks dangle. On lengths of strings that allow the hooks to drag along the bottom of the river as the boat slowly drifts downstream. In recent weeks because mussel prices have risen sharply, this type of fishing has become much more active.

Don-Jones averages may go up and down. Mussel prices have been going up steadily, selling now for $285 a ton F.O.B. Mt. Carmel. Japanese are the buyers, using them in some manner to induce their own oysters to grow, cultured pearls.

One high school boy began fishing the very next week and he says the report goes, is making $300 a day. There was a strong temptation to commandeer a boat, get a supply of string and hooks and turn to fishing for mussels. Even at $75 a day it would be far better than writing stories like this.

On the Indiana side we turned north on a good gravel road alongside the river. A stop was made at a rather old looking place about two miles north where the road turns east. A kind of barbed wire, brambles, and a small building were the only things that indicated the approach of the river. The effort was worth what it cost, even if a good and easy path was found for the return.

Remains of Locks
After the breakthrough of the brushy fringe the woodland became more open and revealed a real surprise. We were literally on top of the first of two locks. The locks that raised and lowered the emergency and barges much used on the Wabash before railroads became common.

All that is left now are the two great parallel walls of huge dressed stones, many weighing tons. These parallel walls—about 80 feet apart, a few hundred feet long, and perhaps 50 feet high overall—are impressive.

The shape of the stonework and recessed indicate where the massive wooden gates once swung on their great hinge pins. Ruins of the keeper's house, burned some years ago, are nearby.

The course of the 1100-foot-long dam across the Wabash still can be traced. With a meager bit of information and a reasonable imagination, a visit to their isolated and abandoned ruins can spend an enjoyable interval, looking and dreaming, before the coming of railroads it was a busy place. Many hope that with the increasing canalization of streams it may once more be busy.

Another Landmark Found
From the dam and locks the guides pointed upstream to the site of another old landmark, where ripples indicate there once was a dam used to power a flour and grist mill. This was Bedell's Dam, a good quarter-mile long. It is two miles or so above the Mt. Carmel locks and dam site.

The dam was built by a Mr. Bedell to operate a great flour and grist mill on the Illinois side. The course of the dam built on a shallow ledge that runs diagonally across the river is easily traced at lower stages.

One is much surprised when he learns more about this dam and its mill. The dam was made by great walled cribs of hewed oak timbers, 36-feet square. They were floated into place on the rocky shallows, skinned and filled with rock to become a continuous dam.

A few years ago some timbers from one of the cribs pulled there more than 125 years ago were dragged ashore and found well preserved.

Some day this summer when the river is lower and water clear, my guides have promised to take me wading to some of the old cribs. Who wants to go along?

Tavern Window Broken
A brick was thrown through a small window on the side of the front door of the Seneca tavern, 2105 Madison avenue, it was reported at 8:45 a.m. Friday.

Three Held Released
A Collinsville couple and a Granite City man who were held by police here in connection with robbing U. S. post office stamps were released Thursday after inspection on the authority of a postal inspector.

Three-Car Collision
Three autos were damaged in a collision at 6:15 a.m. Friday at 15th and State streets as one driven by Arthur J. Hurst Jr., Belleville, headed west on 15th, collided with another driven by Gary McGee, Collinsville, headed north on State, and knocked it into the third car driven by Rudolph J. Zetlin, 1638 Spruce street. Zetlin was stopped while trying to make a left turn onto 15th.

Draft Registrants, 19, To Be Examined
While the Madison County Selective Service board has been limited to induction of 20-year-olds, pre-induction physician examinations already have been extended to 19-year-olds. Under President Johnson's announcement doubling the draft just week, the board is expecting orders for induction of youths in the 19 age bracket.

August quotas are 33 Madison county men to be inducted Friday, Aug. 6, with seven to come from the Quad-City area. A total of 138 Madison county men are to report for medical examination Aug. 27, including 42 Quad-Cityans.

So far this year, 38 Quad-City youths have been inducted—two in January, two in February, one in March, '0 in April, five in June and 13 in July. The board is awaiting orders from Washington before announcing any policy change in connection with future inductions.

2700 Spoken Languages, Innumerable Dialects

Ever since the descendants of Noah tried to build a tower that would reach to heaven, one man's language has been another man's noise.

It was a severe punishment for the arrogance of man, who today is confronted with more than 2700 spoken languages, not to mention dialects.

Along with problems of communication, the gift of languages has provided man with a means for expressing national pride.

and even hostility. The ancient Greeks, for example, called all non-Greek speakers "barbarians" or "hubbards," an unhappy ending for the word "barbarian," which originally meant "State of God."

After the French Revolution, which created a wave of nationalism in France, letters addressed in French, the old language of the northwestern tip of France, were returned to the sender.

Sinhala is the official language of Ceylon; but when the government tried to enforce its use in 1961, some two million people who speak Tamil revolted.

Extra Official Languages

Some countries have tried to solve the language problem by having more than one official language.

Canada uses both French and English; Switzerland, which has been at peace longer than most countries, has three official languages: German, French and Italian—and recognizes Romansh as a fourth national language.

To put an end to the babbles of some persons have suggested that one existing language be made universal, but then there's the problem of which one.

The French philosopher Descartes had an admirable idea when he proposed that an artificial language be created to serve as an international tongue. He has not been followed.

Things, however, for several hundred artificial languages—including Volapuk, Interlingua, Esperanto and Nepo—have been nominated for the honor.

For Quad-Cityans who employ baby sitters, the following suggestions have been given on what to do before leaving the "sitter" in charge.

1. Both parents and the baby sitter should know one another, and the sitter should have a sense of responsibility and like children.

2. The sitter should be told that in case of fire she should get the children out of the house, call the fire department and notify the parents, in that order.

3. The sitter should know all exits from the house or apartment building, and how to get the children out of the house in case of fire.

4. The sitter should know how to take care of minor first-aid emergencies, such as a small burn, a scraped knee or other minor injury.

5. The sitter should know that she should keep the children out of the kitchen if possible—and that they should never be permitted to go into the kitchen unattended.

6. She should know that matches should be kept out of their reach, and that electric cords and appliances are not playthings.

7. The sitter should be provided with flashlights to use in case the lights should fail.

8. Parents should tell the sitter at what time they expect to return home, and telephone her if they are unavoidably detained.

9. The sitter should be provided with a card giving the address and phone number of where the parents will be if they are visiting friends. It should also bear the name, address and telephone number of a nearby relative or neighbor.

10. She should also be provided with the number of the fire department, the police department, a doctor and a hospital.

11. Suitable arrangements should be made for seeing the sitter home.

SOCIETY OF AMERICA

NEW EMBLEM with a modern, progressive appearance symbolizing the strength and freedom of shape inherent in steel castings, it has just been adopted by the Steel Founders' Society of America, Cleveland, trade association of the steel castings industry.

The emblem was designed by the ASA advertising council, Bayless-Kerr Co. Art treatment includes a highly stylized ladle and mold—and the pouring of molten steel. The hypocycloid, or four-pointed star shape in the mold, is adapted from the famous Steelmark and symbolizes steel.

Prime purposes of the new emblem are the strong association of the steel castings industry with the inherent advantages of steel as an engineering material, and identification of the society with an increasingly aggressive marketing program.

July Rainfall for Area Totals Mere 2.31 Inches

Quad-Cities' rainfall during July totaled 2.31 inches—about an inch below the month's normal amount of 3.30—according to the gauge at the Chain of Rocks Canal locks maintained by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers. The area's precipitation for the year was 19.02 at the end of seven months. This is 2.57 inches below normal for the period. Cigaret Tax Increase, Leasing Tax Effective

The price of cigarettes rose in the Quad-Cities and elsewhere in Illinois today as a three-cent higher (20 cents a carton) state tax went into effect. With the tax now seven cents a pack instead of four, prices generally reflect the increase but vary with the types of brands, size and filters.

Another tax increase effective today is a 3 1/2% state tax on gross revenue from equipment rental and leasing. The tax matches other Illinois sales and use taxes already in effect.

Local University — A Dream Come True

Registration Opening Today For First SIU-SW Classes Sept. 22

The majestic new university shown on this page has changed from dream to reality since the model of the campus nucleus was prepared. As can be seen from the similarity with the actual buildings, the original plan has been faithfully followed.

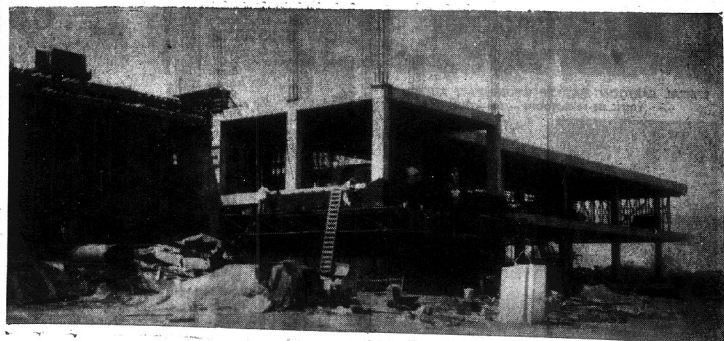

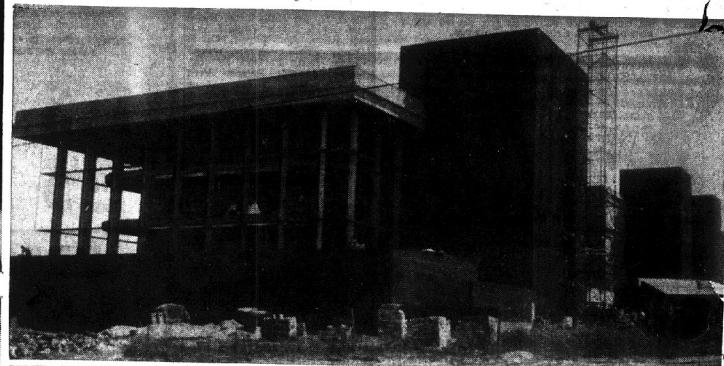

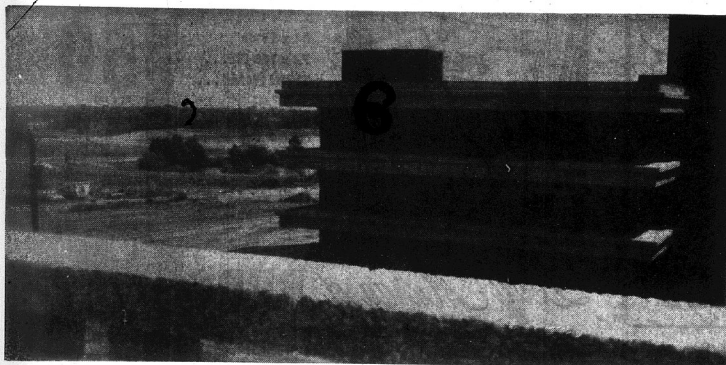

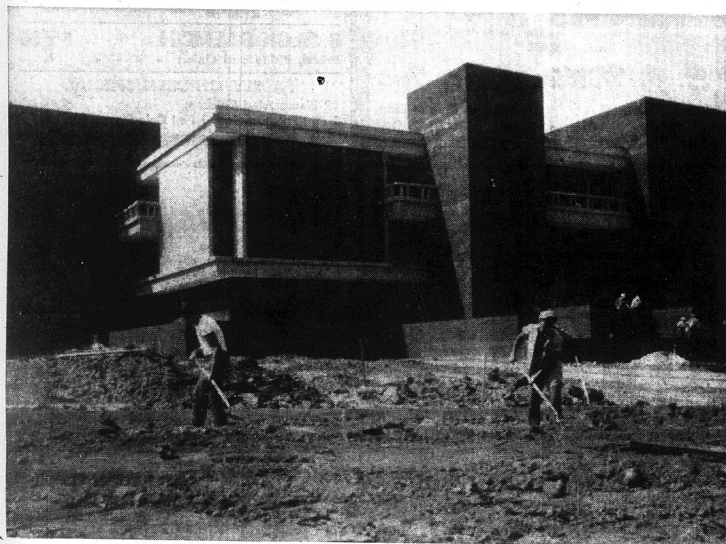

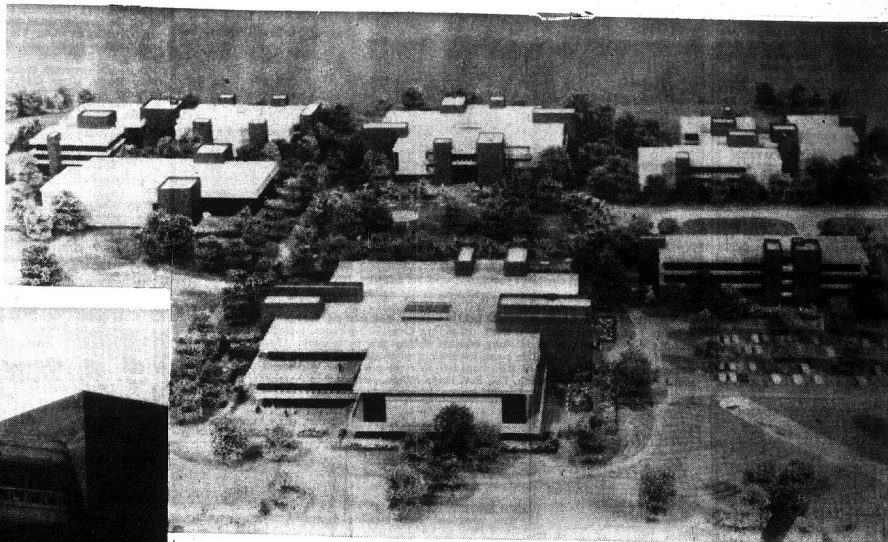

Southern Illinois University-Southwestern Campus, located on a 2600-acre site in the bluff area east of the Quad-Cities, will come to life Sept. 22, the first day on which classes will be conducted at the site. Until now, SIU-SW operations have been restricted to university centers operated in Alton and East St. Louis. Advance registration already is underway at the two centers and is starting today for the main campus.

The three pictures immediately below this description, top to bottom, are the library, with the ground near it shown being leveled for sidewalks last week; part of the general classroom structure, and some of the beautiful campus scenery, viewed from a balcony; and the student center, last of the current construction, with work on a center mall area also visible—trees will be planted in the circular areas.

Photographs below the campus model, top to bottom, give another view of the classroom building, with sidewalk locations being marked; the science structure, scheduled for use in the 1965 winter quarters; and the communications building, still far from completion.

Selection of this location for a major four-year state university was announced Sept. 2, 1958. Funds were contributed by citizens toward purchase of the land, and much of the first phase of construction is being financed by a $25 million state bond issue approved by Illinois voters in November 1960.

GI Home Loan Program Now in Its 21st Year

The GI Home Loan program came to age this summer—21 years—and is still active although its termination date have been set.

John R. Naser, Veterans Administration regional manager for Illinois, today listed some of the program's achievements:

1. More than 243,139 Illinois home loans, totaling two billion dollars, have been guaranteed or insured by VA since 1944 when the program to assist home-hunting veterans got underway.

2. About 6000 business loans and 2000 farm loans have been made along with more than 10,000 direct loans to veterans in areas where private capital was not readily available. These direct loans totaled $80 million.

3. The grand total of loans acquired by veterans through the VA in Illinois add up to approximately 263,000 with a face value of $3 billion, Naser estimated.

4. Nearly 122,000 of these GI loans have been repaid in full. More than 97% of veterans who obtained GI loans have made up-to-date current or final payments. The VA has had to pay less than 2% of defaulted loans.

5. More recently, a stepped-up campaign to dispose of hard-to-sell repossessed homes with VA loans has resulted in the sale of 1532 properties in the last fiscal year.

The great volume of the GI home loan program has resulted in a property management operation of considerable magnitude. Naser said that the VA in Illinois over the years has acquired 7341 properties (foreclosures).

More than 5691 of these properties have now been sold.

The VA has lost less than 1850 properties on hand, as compared to 2000 a year ago.
